While I understand that the decision reached in Pennsylvania Family Institute Inc. v. Celluci, 521 F. Supp. 2d 351 (E.D. Pa. 2007), legally permits a response to this question, I am also guided by the court's decision that declining to respond may also be appropriate under certain circumstances. I'm concerned that a response to this question may be used to force me to recuse myself from future cases and, as noted by Judge Katz, may cast doubt on my impartiality and the integrity of my decisions.
